Shop's tea and cake stall does a roaring trade as Village Day attracts the crowds

Let's hope they will be encouraged to come back soon because they will see lots of new stock including paintings, craft items and creative window displays – all thanks to our wonderful team of contributors and volunteers.

Music while you shop?

We're going to trial having music playing in the background while you shop. We'd welcome your feelings about this – just tell one of our volunteers behind the counter what you think.

The shop's delicious homemade cakes flew off the counter of the pop-up café during Village Day which contributed to one of the shop's most successful days of trading ever. But this could never have happened if it wasn't for the tremendous efforts of the staff volunteers, especially the younger ones, and the dedication of the regular staff some of whom worked from 7am setting up the stall to 7pm taking it down and being available throughout the day to help as necessary.

For many visitors this was their first experience of the shop since its complete refurbishment inside and out and the staff were delighted to get so many complimentary comments on the day.
